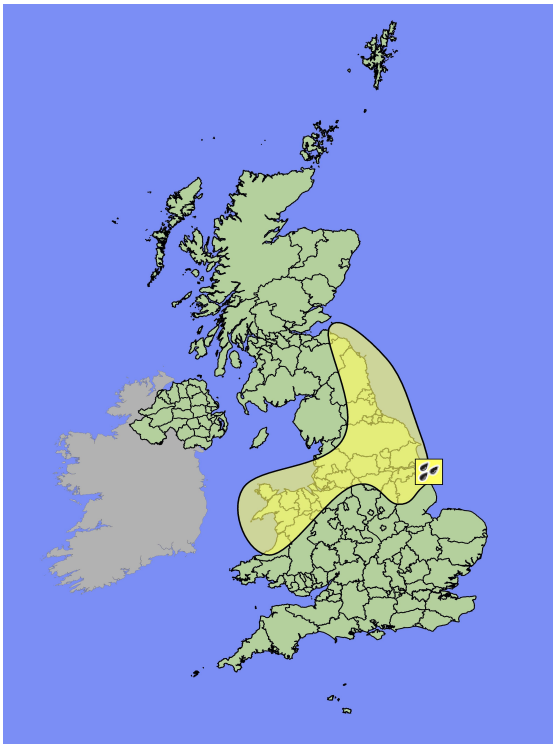
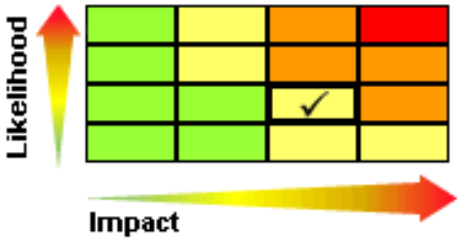
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A frontal system is expected to become slow moving across the area. Whilst the rain is not expected to be particularly heavy in most parts, persistence will allow accumulations to build up with 10-20 mm widely, but more than 30-40 mm in places. Over northwest Wales totals of more than 50 mm are likely locally. Given the saturated nature of the ground, some localised flooding is possible.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 00:05 on Mon, 26th Nov 2012 until 23:59 on Mon, 26th Nov 2012

Persistent, occasionally heavy rain, is expected to affect the area during Monday. The heaviest rain is likely to be during the morning, with the rain tending to ease later in the day. The public should be aware of the risk of localised flooding.
